Description	The Colorado Film and Video Association is Colorado's oldest media organization, started in 1982. It serves the professional media industry by offering educational opportunities, promoting its members, and growing connections and community to build a stronger industry in our state. It is our mission to foster and develop the creative aspirations of Colorado media professionals, and to provide a navigable path for sustainable careers, educational opportunities, and a growing business sector. As Colorado's oldest film industry nonprofit, we have a history of advocacy with key audiences, industry professionals, and state legislators. Show your support for Colorado's media production industry by joining the CFVA.
